

Are You in Control of Your Security?

Do you know everything that happens at your business even when you're not there? Find out how we can help you be in control.

When you're running a business, security isn't always at the top of the list of things you need to think about every day. But with the system you have right now, shouldn't it be? Many business owners think that just having a security system is enough to keep their business safe but when you look a little closer at the reality of what the actual threats to a business are, you'll quickly realise that isn't the case.

With today's technology it's become a lot easier to provide your organization with the kind of security that will truly let you rest easy knowing your business is in good hands. We've been providing businesses in Regina with the kind of security systems that make life easier for the people that use them. And now it's time for you to take the step towards more peace of mind.

How we can make life better for you:

You'll never have to wonder who has a code to your system.

With our monitoring service, you can log into your system, see who's got a code and easily add, delete or edit users from your laptop or desktop. You'll also be able to access the event log and simply search back and see who's arming and disarming at what times.

Ever wonder if the security system has been armed when you come home after a long day? Not anymore! You'll just log into your account with your smart phone app, check the status and arm the system if you need to.

You'll always know when someone disarms the system. Wouldn't you like to know when someone disarms your system at night or on the weekend? We will send you a message with a video clip the moment it happens.

Ever wonder how the business is running when you're not there? You won't have to guess anymore. With our monitoring service, you can simply log into your account using the app on your smart phone and see real-time video of what's going on at your business.

With Honeywell™ Total Connect by Swift Security, you're always in control.

How Does It Work?

When you subscribe to our service, we will cancel the monitoring with your current provider for you. We'll install new equipment that is compatible with this service.

The installation only takes a couple of hours since all your sensors can stay in place. We only replace the panel and keypad. The equipment we install is the Honeywell™ security brand and it comes with a full 3 year warranty.

We'll also add a cellular communicator to your system that will keep your business protected even when the phone line is cut.

We'll install 1 indoor camera that will connect to your system and that allows you to watch your business through your internet connection. The system can be expanded to have up to 6 indoor or outdoor cameras connected at a very low cost.

Some added benefits

The video connectivity that our Total Connect service offers is a cost effective alternative to traditional video surveillance systems. It's a cloud based system and the images are uploaded to Honeywell's secure server in real time, so you won't have to worry about anyone taking off with your local recording device.

With the cellular communicator you're not just relying on your phone line for alarm communications with our station. It provides your business with better protection, no matter what happens.

Of course the main feature benefit of this article is the ease of managing who has access to your business. The web interface helps you stay in control of your security system at all times.

And best of all, we'll let you try it for free and if you're not entirely happy with the service within 3 months, we'll take back the equipment and reinstall your old equipment. We only offer our customers the best possible service and we're sure you'll love it!
